3rd Annual Business and Investment Visa Seminar (virtual edition)

Do you have questions about business travel to the U.S.? Have the Presidential Proclamations on Novel Coronavirus and risk to the U.S. Labor Market affected your ability to send employees to the U.S. for business activity that is essential to your or your customers' business operations in the U.S.? Would you like to learn more about making the National Interest Exception (NIE) process more efficient?

Then please join the U.S. Foreign Commercial Service SelectUSA program and the Council of American States in Europe on Thursday, December 3 at 2:00 p.m. (CET) for a dynamic online discussion of Presidential Proclamations 9993 and 10052 and national interest exceptions under both.

The discussion will be led by a team of a of U.S. consular officers from throughout Germany, who will discuss what's included and what's exempted under both proclamations, what exceptions are available for your employees to travel to the U.S., and the mechanics and best practices for requesting and receiving NIE approval.
