

Because we care!

Our strength and motivation:

AmplexDiagnostics GmbH is a privately owned and independent company for applied sciences, specializing in microbiological issues with fast and professional molecular solutions in the field of CE IVD diagnostics. The close cooperation with international scientists leads to a fruitful European network that inspires our research and development department and optimizes our portfolio. These brand-new findings are an integral part of our CE IVD products and are passed on directly to all our customers. The company was founded in 2002, with Munich as the development and production site. In 2010 the sales and marketing department first moved to Gießen and in 2019 to Buseck. The development and production departments have been in Gars-Bahnhof since 2005 and are characterized by constant growth. Growing means finding new niches in order to optimize routine processes and work in a highly customer-oriented manner. Mainstream is not the way we think.
